LETTER from the PRESIDENT

ANITA PFEFFERKORN

LET YOUR NEW JERSEY CAMPING ADVENTURE BEGIN!

Camping is experiencing a great resurgence across the country. New Jersey Campgrounds are ready to welcome you for the 2021 season!

Our New Jersey campgrounds have campsites for all types of campers! Beautiful campsites for tents, RV's, motorcoaches, etc. are only part of what we offer. Outdoor lodging for guests who want to experience camping without actually owning an RV include yurts, safari tents, covered wagons, teepees, cabins, retro RVs: you name it, one (or more!) of our campgrounds offer it!

The nicest thing I find about the campgrounds in New Jersey is that there is something for everyone. With campgrounds in every region of the state, whether you like the mountains, the seashore, the rivers, the forests, the history; there is a campground nearby! The campgrounds are as diverse as the state. Quiet retreats, family fun, nightlife, campfires, hayrides; whatever you love, you will find it at a New Jersey campground.

Most of the privately owned campgrounds in New Jersey are family owned and operated. I love that in a great way, every campground reflects the personality of the owners! With 95 campgrounds in the state, you could camp in a different campground every night from June 1 until August 31 and never have the same experience twice! The spring and fall seasons are perfect for camping! Warm days and cool nights by the campfire, enjoying s'mores with friends.... who can't wait!

And do not forget your best friend! Almost every campground in New Jersey is dog friendly, many with dog parks for our furry family members!
This guidebook is chock full of information about our great member campgrounds in the Garden State. Inside you will find camping recipes, etiquette tips for new campers, regional info and so much more.
I look forward to seeing you at a New Jersey campground in 2021.

Anita Pfefferkorn

Dear Friends,

Let your "Camping" adventure begin at one of New Jersey's unforgettable campgrounds! Whatever your ideal camping experience – s'mores and fire pits outside a log cabin, sleeping under the stars, or relaxing in the comfort of your RV – New Jersey is the place to be.

Unplug at one of the state's 25,000 campsites covering 796,270 acres of State Forests, Parks and Natural Areas – including 347,000 acres of Wildlife Management Areas – that offer a wealth of outdoor recreation opportunities. Many campgrounds offer activities of their own for campers to enjoy with many of the sites situated near arts and cultural venues, the Jersey Shore, and various distinctive attractions.

Campers can enjoy local live entertainment, bird and butterfly watching, festivals and street fairs as well as a number of tasting rooms at nearby award-winning wineries and tasty craft beer breweries. Some campgrounds resemble small towns, with supply stores, dining spots, swimming pools and recreation areas while others are sought after for their scenic and remote settings.

And not just a warm weather activity, campgrounds and camping resorts operate year-round while others operate from May to October. Many campgrounds offer daily, weekly, and seasonal site rentals to accommodate schedules and individual needs.

With so many camping areas to explore, New Jersey Campground & RV Guide from the New Jersey Campground Association will help you as you begin planning your authentic New Jersey camping adventure.

We wish you a safe and memorable camping experience in New Jersey.

Our very best,

Philip D. Murphy
Governor

South Jersey Tourism – There is so much to do in the South Jersey area, where to start! Visit South Jersey has all the information you need including events, wineries, shopping, dining, nightlife, and more.
www.visitsouthjersey.com
SEE OUR AD ON PAGE 15

Bayshore Center at Bivalve – Port Norris - New Jersey's only environmental history museum and the home port of the 1928 Schooner AJ Meerwald, New Jersey's official tall ship. Located on a working waterfront, the Bayshore Center at Bivalve operates the Delaware Bay Museum and the Oyster Cracker Café in the Oyster Shipping Sheds dating back to 1904. Visitors will enjoy the beauty of the Maurice River, a National Wild and Scenic River, and get to watch oystermen navigate the river as osprey and bald eagles soar overhead.
www.bayshorecenter.org

Battleship New Jersey – Camden - Our nation's most decorated Navy ship afloat and largest battleship in the history of the world, is preserved as she was during her career from World War II though the Persian Gulf War. Today, she serves as a tourist attraction. The Battleship New Jersey has recently opened the Steam to Speed Engineering Tour, a guided tour that takes guests into the ship's engine rooms. Jason's Kids Kompartment, a play area for pre-school children to enjoy and learn a little about the battleship.
www.battleshipnewjersey.org

Farmer's Markets – The area is rich with farmers and farmers markets where you can find Jersey Fresh produce and other locally hand-crafted items.
www.findjerseyfresh.com

Princeton Battlefield Park – Princeton - National Historic Landmark on 85 acres. On Jan. 3, 1777, the peaceful winter fields and woods of Princeton Battlefield were transformed into the site of what is considered to be the fiercest fight of its size during the American Revolution. During this desperate battle, American troops under Gen. George Washington surprised and defeated a force of British Regulars. Coming at the end of 'The Ten Crucial Days,' which saw the well-known night crossing of the Delaware River and two battles in Trenton, the Battle of Princeton gave Washington his first victory against the British Regulars on the field.
www.njparksandforests.org/parks/princeton.html

Grounds For Sculpture – Hamilton - A 42-acre sculpture park, museum, and arboretum. The organization presents and conserves an extraordinary collection of contemporary sculpture, offers programming for all ages, and provides rotating exhibitions in six indoor galleries.
www.groundsforsculpture.org

Lighthouses – The region has two lighthouses on the Delaware River, Tinicum Rear Range Lighthouse in Paulsboro and Finns Point Rear Range Light in Pennsville. Both lighthouses date back to the late 1800's and offer a unique history.
www.tinicumrearrangelighthouse.org / www.friendsofsupawnarefuge.org

Get Outdoors – The region offers great state parks and forests, but the area is rich with American Revolutionary history. Wharton State Forest not only offers trails for biking, hiking, canoeing but is home to Batsto Village. Supawna Meadows National Wildlife Refuge, Rancocas State Park, Delaware & Raritan Canal State Park, and Bass River State Forest are a few other must visit spots.

NJCOA RECIPE

NJCOA 2020

CAMPFIRE FRENCH TOAST

INGREDIENTS

- Butter, for foil
- 5 large eggs
- 1/4 c. whole milk
- 1 tbsp. granulated sugar
- 1 tsp. pure vanilla extract
- Pinch kosher salt
- 1 loaf sliced white bread
- 1 c. sliced strawberries, for serving
- 1/4 c. powdered sugar, for garnish
- Maple syrup, for serving

INSTRUCTIONS

Grease a large piece of foil with butter and shape it into a boat. Place bread slices inside, standing up to keep its loaf shape. (It's okay for slices to fall slightly open.) Add another piece of foil underneath for double coverage.

In a large liquid measuring cup, whisk together eggs, milk, sugar, vanilla, and salt. Carefully pour over bread, making sure to get between each slice.

Cover whole loaf with foil. Place over campfire — NOT over the hottest part — until egg mixture is cooked through and bread is lightly toasted, about 40 minutes.

Let sit for 10 minutes before serving. Dust with powdered sugar and garnish with sliced strawberries. Serve warm with syrup.

Girl Camper

By: Janine Pettitr – Editor in Chief of Girl Camper Magazine

It seems like a whole lot of people just discovered what many of us have known all along. Camping is a great way to bond with family and friends, enjoy the outdoors in comfort, and destress from a long week in front of a screen. Camping is suddenly all the rage! The covid restrictions put in place in 2020 opened our world to those who might never have given camping a chance. RV sales and campground reservations soared as those reluctant to get on a plane or stay in a hotel looked for a change of scenery and a way to vacation away from the masses. If you are one of those people, welcome to our campfire!

I have a few suggestions to help newcomers navigate that learning curve so your travels can be as stress free as possible.

#1 – Don't be afraid to ask for help at the campground. You are going to be happy to discover that campers are among the kindest people out there. They are always willing to lend support to those new to backing in a rig, working the dump station, or figuring out solar panels and batteries. Everyone was a beginner at one time and usually love helping others get the hang of it.

#2 – Take advantage of social media and learn from the comfort of your own home. YouTube has so many channels put out by experienced RVers and they can help you avoid a lot of rookie mistakes. I am hooked on RV Education 101 and often go to their website or YouTube channel when I am unsure of something. Mark Polk, the founder of RV Education 101, has encyclopedic knowledge of all things RVing and a gift for conveying even complicated things in simple terms.

#3 – Keep your trips close to home until you figure out your rig and hone your towing skills. Many Rvers do a "shake down" trip at a campground close to the RV dealership they bought their rig from. This allows them to call with questions if they are having trouble with some component of the RV. Keeping your first trips close to home allows you to focus on getting acclimated to your rig and not on how many miles you still have to drive.

#4 – Join a Facebook group of fellow owners of the model RV you purchased. You will get so much help here from people who know what they are talking about. Chances are high that your question can be answered quickly or has already come up in the group and is archived there. Knowing there's a whole group of people who have your back is a confidence builder.

#5 – Check out all the great Apps that make travel and trip planning fun and easy. I love 'RV Trip Wizard' for trip planning. It's a great website for planning out a bucket list trip. It has unbiased reviews from actual RVers, over 20K campgrounds, tens of thousands of points of interest you might not have known about, the ability to project the cost of a trip and it can be customized to your specific RV. When combined with the RV Life App, you get RV safe GPS routing so you won't end on a road with a 12' foot bridge when you have a 13' clearance on your trailer. 'All Stays' is a great App for finding a campground. SkyView Lite lets you explore the stars and the 'ITunes Podcast' App lets you check out the RV and travel podcasts while you are logging some miles. Check out the Girl Camper Podcast while you are there!

#6 – Take your time – in all things. Take your time getting there. Enjoy the journey and don't worry about making it to the campsite by a certain time. Sometimes things happen and they slow you down. Don't let the unexpected things take the fun out of it. Take your time making your RV your own. I reorganized my camper several times the first season I had it. It takes time and use to figure out the best place for everything, the best way to store things and what to leave behind. It's all part of the fun. Take your time with the people you meet. Be willing to chat at the camp store and the mini golf course with fellow RVers. Social media and screen time have reduced our opportunities for old fashioned conversation. There are people I now call friends who were total strangers until I happened to be camped next to them one weekend. Be open to meeting new friends.

#7 – Share the love- Invite your non camping friends to experience the lifestyle. Book a site at a campground with cabin rentals and let your friends experience firsthand the things we all love about camping. If there are no cabins available, log into Outdoorsy and rent a camper for the wannabes you know. Outdoorsy is a peer to peer rental program that lets you rent an RV from an owner that is not using it. They come with everything you need and sometimes the owners will deliver it to the campground for you. It's also a great way to test out an RV you like before buying it. You might discover you love it or that the counter space is too small, and you need to keep searching.

#8 – Subscribe to RV news outlets starting with Girl Camper Magazine. It is not just for girls!! It is an inspirational quarterly subscription full of camping stories, recipes, and destinations you will want to put on your list. It also offers how to's from experts in health and wellness, automotive, RV maintenance and even tips for traveling with pets.

BEER STEAMED JERSEY FRESH CLAMS

One of the best parts about camping along the Jersey shore is the fresh seafood. We love having clams over the campfire especially when it is a simple recipe.

Cleaning Clams: Tap the top shell of any open clams, and if any of them don't close themselves, discard them because they're dead. Soak your clams in cold water and sea salt for 20 minutes before cooking. Some recommend doing three 20-minute soaks, changing the water each time. Scrub each clam with a stiff-bristle brush to remove any grit or debris on the shells. Remember, if a clam hasn't opened after cooking, toss it.

INGREDIENTS

- 2-3 pounds Jersey Fresh clams
- 1 can of beer a pale lager is best – try a local beer!
- 2-3 tablespoons butter
- 1 lemon cut into wedges
- 6-8 cloves of garlic minced

CAMPFIRE INSTRUCTIONS

Pour Beer into Dutch Oven. Add clams, butter, garlic and squeeze lemon wedges into pot and toss them in. Cover with lid and place over campfire. Steam for 5-8 minutes, until clams have opened.

A Second Home on Wheels

By:Lisa Merman Bender

Let's face it. RVs have always had their own unique attraction. The idea of traveling the open road with the comforts of home right behind you and your selected destination ahead, sounds pretty amazing. Whether you're headed to the mountains you love to hike, your favorite fishing spot, or that place that has the pool with the fun waterslide, it doesn't matter. An RV vacation is your getaway, on your terms, with your stuff. Now imagine having a "second home" at that dream-vacation destination. If you have an RV already, it can easily happen. It's called seasonal camping, and it sounds like a dream come true.

Seasonal camping is appealing for so many reasons. And, it may be more available than you think. Most New Jersey campgrounds have a seasonal-camping option, so you can easily find a site in your favorite area of this great state. Let's consider some of the many benefits.

Seasonal camping could be about convenience. Wouldn't it be nice to unpack, set up your patio, and hook up only once per season? And say goodbye to searching for storage as most campgrounds have an option to keep your RV on site year round, even if the facility is closed in the off season. If you're dedicated to seasonal camping, you have the same site each year and in some cases you can really make the site your own. At Ocean View Resort in Cape May County, NJ, seasonal campers can put down stone, plant bushes, and erect a small fence with approval from management.

"You have to submit an application for a permit to make changes, but there's no fee," said Jim Steffen who has had a seasonal site at Ocean View Resort since 2017. His wife Louise Steffen added, "They just want to make sure that whatever you're planning has a nice aesthetic because they really do a lot to keep the campground looking good." Also convenient, "I pay extra for them to winterize my RV for me and leave it there all winter. It couldn't be easier," explains Jim.

Seasonal camping could be about comfort. It's nice to hop in the car and head to your home away from home. You don't have to make reservations. You know what the expenses will be. You know the staff. You've selected a particular campground because you're comfortable with what it has to offer—not only the campground, but the surrounding area. You can take comfort knowing that you have a favorite pizza place, a favorite tavern, and the best beach, lake, river, or trail within minutes.

"One of the things we think our customers like the most is knowing the staff," explains Randy Pricksett owner with his wife Lynn of Sleepy Hollow Family Campground in Egg Harbor Township, NJ. "Most of our staff members are here year after year. They plan and run the many great events like our annual luau, our sporting events, and our family game nights." The Pricksetts believe that they are, "more in the entertainment business than anything." In addition to the activities they provide, they "have really good wi-fi, good enough to stream," which is important for seasonal campers who stay for long periods of time. Take comfort in knowing you will be entertained every weekend at your seasonal-campsite second home, all included in the cost.

Seasonal camping could be about community. We're talking generational friendships. Some families have had a seasonal campsite for decades. Now their grown children have a site, too. Most people seem to choose seasonal camping for how family-oriented it is. At a seasonal-only site like Sleepy Hollow Family Campground, they know their customers love the family-feel and the fact that the same families come back each year. They make lasting friendships with people who are essentially their neighbors.

Now that you know how amazing seasonal camping can be, you can start searching for your dream destination. Once you find it, get in touch quickly because most people renew year after year. At Sleepy Hollow Family Campground, the average time a customer renews a lot is 12 years. Seasonal sites typically work by contract where each customer that has an existing contract can renew first. Most sites offer standard, premium and waterfront lots (if available), so there are a variety of options for every budget. You can discover New Jersey's seasonal campgrounds at GoCampingNJ.com
